Water Conservation Information

Water conservation is important all year round and may be even more important as we go into summer after one of the driest winters in years. To help you save water this summer, as well as all year round, look for the monthly water conservation articles and tips in the Trail News. For information on the Water Conservation Program for the Cities of Oregon City and West Linn, call Kimberly Swan at South Fork Water Board at 503-723-9692.

Checking Your Water Meter for Leaks

Undetected leaks can be costly. Your water meter can tell you how much water you use in a day, week or a month. It can also help you measure the effectiveness of your households water conservation program and help detect leaks.

Whether inside or outside your home, a leak can waste hundreds of gallons of water a year. Some leaks are easy to see or hear. Others are small. However, big or small, any leak will cost you money and should be repaired as soon as possible.

- How to locate your meter

Your water meter should be located in front of your house, inside a concrete or plastic meter box that is set flush with the ground. Look for your meter behind the sidewalk at a side lot line near the street. If your home is on a corner lot, your water meter could be located either on the front or side street. Sometimes, meter boxes are not easily visible due to landscaping and other obstructions.

- How to read your meter

Reading your water meter is like reading the odometer in your car. Read all the numbers from left to right that appear under the words "cubic feet". The first digit on the right represents one cubic foot. The second from the right represents 10 cubic feet. The third from the right (usually a different color) represents 100 cubic feet – or one ccf. One revolution of the meter sweep-hand equals one cubic foot, or 7.48 gallons.

- Checking your system for leaks

There is a simple test you can perform to use your water meter to detect leaks. First, turn off all your faucets and water-using appliances (such as dish and clothes washers) and be sure no one is using any water. Then go to your water meter and lift the cover of the meter dial. Note the position of the sweep-hand, or use a marker on the lens cover. Then, wait 20-30 minutes and check the sweep-hand location again. If the sweep-hand has moved, you probably have a leak somewhere in your system. If the small red diamond shaped indicator on the face of the meter is moving, it also means you probably have a leak. Retest to be certain, and then locate the leak by inspecting all the pipes, fixtures and appliances that use water.

- Where to look for leaks

First, your toilet may have a silent leak. Drop a little food coloring in the tank. Wait about 10 minutes without flushing. If color appears in the bowl you have a leak. Next, check for moist spots around and under house plumbing and around the outdoor plumbing. Finally, replace worn washers in faucets and showerheads. A little drip waste many gallons each day.

Water Quality News

As part of the 1996 amendments to the Safe Drinking Water Act, the US Environmental Protection Agency and the Oregon Health Division require water utilities to provide their customers with an annual water quality report. This is an opportunity for water consumers to know more about their drinking water, where it comes from, and how safe the water is.

We are currently working on the year's report and will be mailing it out to you at the end of May. We hope you will find the information useful and easy to understand. If you have any drinking water quality questions or concerns call Gail Johnson at 503-657-8241-extension 107 or e-mail gjohnson@ci.oregon-city.or.us.

New Wetland Signs

Oregon City Public Works Storm Division has been installing signs at the detention ponds and wetland areas around town in the last couple of months to inform the public about their purpose and what creek the detention ponds drain into.

We hope these signs provide insight on the storm drainage system in Oregon City. Please respect these areas and report any violations such as illegal dumping to Public Works at 503-657-8241.

What Does Ballot Measure #3-38 Do?

Ballot Measure 3-38 on the May 15 ballot asks Oregon City voters to allow the City to grant the National Park Service (NPS) a property interest in a city park that would allow the NPS to administer the McLoughlin House National Historic Site. The Site is located on Oregon City Block 40 (a Charter Park), which was dedicated to public use by Dr. McLoughlin 150 years ago.

The McLoughlin Memorial Association, longtime owner and caretaker of the McLoughlin and Barclay Houses, two historic buildings, has asked the NPS to assume responsibility in order to ensure the future care of the site. However, the NPS cannot do this without explicit assurance that federal funds and involvement invested in the site can be protected and utilized appropriately. A property interest, such as an easement, conveyed to the NPS would accomplish this, and the City of Oregon City would retain control of the remaining interests in the charter park land underlying the buildings.

This proposal is intended to relieve the volunteer caretakers of concern about the site's future funding, while at the same time freeing up City Park resources currently used to maintain the park grounds.

Approving a property interest to the NPS is just the first step. The entire process will require several additional steps, including Congressional legislation and appropriation of NPS acquisition and operational funds for the site.

This ballot measure will result in a different ownership interest for the first National Historic Site west of the Rockies, named by Congress in 1941. It maintains City ownership of the historic McLoughlin property known as Block 40, subject to the grant of a property interest to the federal government to maintain and operate the site.

This measure will be on the May 15 Ballot. For further information, or to arrange for a speaker, please contact the McLoughlin Memorial Association President, John Salisbury at 503-656-2759. Additional informational contacts include: Dee Craig, City of Oregon City Director of Parks and Recreation, at 503-722-3796; Brian Nakamura, City Manager at 503-722-3792 or Tracy Fortmann, National Park Service, Superintendent, Fort Vancouver NHS at 360-696-7655-extension 13.

Fire Fatality Figures

Bob Garrison, Oregon State Fire Marshal recently announced the following Fire Fatality figures for the year 2000:

- Oregon's fire fatalities climbed from 31 in 1999 to 40 in 2000.
- Of the 40 fatalities in 2000, four resulted from vehicle fires, two were in a non-residential structure at the time of death, and 34 were in a residence.
- Children and the elderly continue to represent a disproportionately high percentage of fire fatalities.

According to Bob Garrison, "Oregonians must take responsibility for fire prevention; taking just a few simple precautions can mean the difference between life and death."

State Fire Marshal Garrison encourages all Oregonians to take an active role in fire prevention by observing the following fire safety tips:

- Install and maintain smoke alarms on every level of your home, outside each sleeping area and in every bedroom.
- Make a home escape plan and practice it twice a year.
- Keep clothing, furnishings and other combustible items away from all heat sources.
- Keep matches and lighters away from children.
- Consider a home fire sprinkler system for increased protection.

Most fires can be prevented!

Skateboard Park Safety Incentives

Since the opening of the Skateboard Park (at Clackamette Park), Tualatin Valley Fire & Rescue has responded to a number of injury related calls. To promote safety and to avoid serious head injuries for those using the park, Tualatin Valley Fire and Rescue has implemented an incentive program to encourage all skateboarders and roller blade users of the park to wear safety helmets.

T'VF&R will be dropping by the park from time to time to hand out free fast food coupons to those wearing helmets. These coupons will be for food items donated by fast food restaurants in the Oregon City area.

Can We Find You?

Tualatin Valley Fire & Rescue considers rapid response times to fire and medical calls to be of the utmost importance. A short delay can mean the difference between life and death! Address numbers of adequate size and color on your home or business are not only good for safety but are required by law. City Code requires the numbers on homes to be a minimum of four inches in height; in addition, they must contrast with their background. The address numbers should be displayed near the main entrance of your home or business and should be easily readable from the street. Please help us ~ help you. Check your address numbers today!
