

Now the Fischer Quints Are Five Little Indians

E. C. Pieplow, president of the Chamber of Commerce at Aberdeen, S. D., accepts moccasin gifts for the Fischer quintuplets during a ceremony in Aberdeen. He served as a substitute for them in a ceremony inducting the babies into the Sioux Indian nation. Six chiefs, six women and three children, all descendants of Sitting Bull, took part in the rites led by Frank White Buffalo Man. An uncle of the quints, Max Fischer, and his wife, have served as teacher and nurse on the Standing Rock Sioux reservation.
