Description of Physical and Landscape Features:
This single-story, asymmetrical-elevation house has two masses each with a hip roof. The south end square mass projects out from the north rectangular mass. The north mass has a wide chimney perpendicular to the street. There are three fixed picture windows dominate the east elevation. The recessed front door is in the projecting south end square. The siding is lap. It has concrete entry walk with steps. Shrubs skirt the poured concrete foundation. The wood trimmed windows appear to have apron moldings. There is a one car garage to the southwest.
