Description of Physical and Landscape Features:
This house is a bungalow with a gable roof, and square battered posts on the front porch. There are brackets up in the gable, and rafter tails at the roofline. The porch ceiling appears to be tongue and groove boards. The porch decking has been replaced with plywood. The house sits high off the street due to the site and a board formed retaining wall holds the front yard in place. A garage directly at street level is inset into the hill of the front yard on the north end of the lot.
